„Who am I?“ Every individual is confronted with this question in the course of their life.

The ego, as its own separate identity of a person, appears visually as an individual person. However, our being includes many different personalities, which in turn together form an identity. This diversity of personalities is reflected in „Identity“. We see a crowd of people, in which each subject presents itself through certain facial expressions, gestures, posture or body tension. They all represent a current trait, which the unique ego, in the person, carries with him.

„Identity“ shows only a part of our complex personality. Through lessons learned or moments experienced, new characters are added, and enrich us.
