The series „Planets“ shows how sensational and varied the inventiveness of our mind can be. The subject „Mother Earth“ is created from an object like the Earth. You want to ask yourself, whether we humans are even in fact subjects, as we conceive and perceive.

We all see ourselves as individuals, as independently advancing creatures, and yet we are dependent on the community, upon external influences that drive us forward in our own development: We are a result of society, we are society.

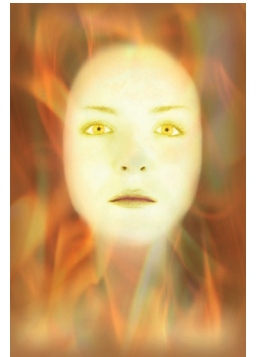

„Planets“ embodies the notion of subjectivised objectivity.
